

Imbewu Farmer Development: FIRST-YEAR IMPACTS

Imbewu Farmer Development is a joint project of Tanager and John Deere Foundation to enhance agricultural productivity and improve incomes – and, ultimately, the food security – of smallholder maize farmers in OR Tambo District, Eastern Cape Province, South Africa.

In a scant one year of implementation, the project has already achieved some notable impacts.

Farmer Engagement

OF FARMERS REGISTERED

202

Maize Productivity

HECTARES UNDER CULTIVATION

214.5 ha

FIRST-YEAR TARGET 45 ha

Skills Development

OF FARMERS TRAINED

196

FARMERS TRAINED BY MODULE

Business Record Keeping	Pest & Disease Management	Plant Nutrition
171	124	119
Collect Agricultural Data
132	23 Pre-Planting Activities

Tanager, an ACDI/VOCA affiliate, empowers people to realize life-changing economic and social opportunities. We have 30 years of experience in integrating gender empowerment and nutrition into agriculture, connecting people across the production supply chain, fostering access for women and other marginalized groups, and unlocking sustainable, climate-smart economic opportunities for all.

Washington, DC
50 F Street NW
Ste 1000
Washington, DC 20001

South Africa
Mthatha
East London